

Menzies Doctoral Research Scholarships

The Menzies School of Health Research are offering scholarships to support PhD students involving the Aboriginal Birth Cohort Study: Wave-4 in the areas of nutrition and mental health

Eligibility:

- Enrolled in or satisfy the admission requirements to the Doctor of Philosophy program at Charles Darwin University
- Available to commence/enrol in Semester 1 2014
- Applicants research topic should align with Menzies research in the area of Nutrition or Mental Health
- Willingness to be based in Darwin at the Menzies School of Health Research for the majority of the candidature
- Ability to travel to remote Northern Territory communities for field-based research

Scholarship entitlements:

- Tax-free stipend of $30,000 per annum (student will be expected to apply for a primary research scholarship in the first year of candidature)
- Student support funds to assist with project expenses such as travel and accommodation

For further information please contact

Caroline Walsh, Research Degrees Administration Officer, Menzies School of Health Research (08 8922 8698 or email education@menzies.edu.au)

discovery for a healthy tomorrow

