HEARING WOES
VITAL TO FIXING
TIWI SCHOOLS

Special Report

Gurrumul: Where can we go from here?

By LAUREN NORELLS

NEW LETTER FROM THE TIWINTITA:

"We need to take action now."
About 95 percent of one-year-old indigenous kids living in remote communities can’t hear normally out of one or both of their ears. Now a new program aims to fix the problem.
Lauren Roberts investigates
Is enough to help these kids hear? Health reporter

Community-led program will be rolled out but will

NT’s most vulnerable children a $79 million news. To address chronic hearing problems in hearing. It’s a distinguishing number but it’s not new.

remote Australian communites have normal

Just one in 20 one-year old indigenous kids in